State Promises To Build New Bridges

Governmental wheels ground at a rapid pace Sunday afternoon and Monday morning to bring about correction of a condition that has existed for many years at Six Mile Bridge east of Belle Glade, where five people met death over the week end when their car skidded off the bridge into 30 feet of water in the canal.

State Road Department officials in Tallahassee promised immediate action on receiving bids for construction of a new bridge at the point where many accidents have occurred. At the same time they promised to ask for bids on three other badly needed bridges in the Glades—at Lake Harbor, Canal Point and South Bay.

SRD Member Merrill P. Barber scheduled a meeting for the bridge site at 10 a. m. Monday at which time SRD Maintenance Engineer Winston Carlton, Maintenance Supt. J. L. Papy, State Rep. B. Elliott, County Commissioner Paul Rardin, Belle Glade City Commissioner H. O. Carlton, US441 Highway Association President Henry Earwood and 25 interested citizens of Belle Glade were in attendance. After an hour and thirty minutes of discussion, plans were perfected for marking the bridge to make it safe for travel until the new span can be built.

Three large six feet by six feet signs with reflector lights are to be erected. Thirty of the the Australian pines are to be removed making the bridge approach much easier to see. The word "Slow" has been painted in huge letters every 200 feet east and west of the bridge for a quarter of a mile. New heavy duty wheel guards have been built into place on the old bridge and new hand rails have been replaced where they have been torn down by cars. The bridge and guard rails have bright new coat of paint.

The Hibiscus Circle will meet at 10 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Homer J. Clause on Bacom Point Road, with Mrs. George Ramey, co-hostess.

Because of the increase in the cost of living index, all Minute Maid Corporation hourly employees received a pay raise starting with a plan instituted five years ago.

Frozen Food Clinic Scheduled Feb. 21

On Thursday, February 21st, at 1:30 P. M., there will be a Frozen Food Demonstration in the Community Building at Canal Point, sponsored by the County Agricultural Extension Service. The public is cordially invited.

Miss Alice Cromartie, Assistant Extension Conservationist, from Tallahassee, will be in charge. Miss Cromartie, in addition to giving demonstrations, will answer questions on problems of freezer owners. It is suggested that people bring a package of frozen food which has not been satisfactory, as this will assist in her analyses.

Miss Cromartie is originally from Belle Glade, where she was an outstanding 4-H Club girl. After receiving her B. S. Degree from Florida State University she continued work on her Masters, specializing in Food Conservation. Over a period of two years now she has been a member of the State Extension Staff, serving as Assistant Food Conservation Specialist.

There will be considerable interest this winter at Hialeah in the racing debuts of the sons and daughters of two young stallions who earned considerable fame at the tracks. One is Spy Song. The other is the Australian champion Shannon.

County Will Help SRD In Maintaining Electric Flashers

Monday afternoon following a conference at the Six Mile Bridge site east of Belle Glade and after it had been decided that electric flashing lights would be the only sure cure for traffic ills there, E. G. Andrews, assistant engineer of traffic planning with the State Road Department in Tallahassee, called County Commissioner Paul Rardin and asked if the county commission would go along with the State Road Dept. in maintaining electric flasher lights on the bridge until a new bridge is built.

Commissioner Rardin gave Mr. Andrews an instant answer and told him that the Palm Beach County Commission would do anything within reason to halt the many accidents at the bridge. Rardin's action was backed 100 per cent by the county commission next day when by the signature of the chairman went to T. confirming the Gladson's decision.

Seventy-nine million gallons of gasoline were sold in Florida during the month of December 1951. Comptroller C. M. Day reported collection of $5,490,000 in taxes on the fuel sold.

17 Flares Burn At Danger Spot Result Of Rardin's Action

Sunday afternoon when County Commissioner Paul Rardin was notified of the wreck at Six Mile Bridge on State Road 80 in which five people met death by drowning, he immediately got in touch with State Road Department officials in Miami and Fort Lauderdale and asked that a number of flares be lighted each night on bridge approaches until other safety precautions could be put into effect.

J. L. Papy, maintenance superintendent for the State Road Department in this district, instructed workmen Sunday afternoon to set out flares and lanterns enough to definitely mark the bridge as a danger spot. As a result of this action there are 17 flares and red lanterns burning each night at the bridge indelibly marking it as a spot for slow traffic and caution.

The force in the office of The Everglades News knew they were letting themselves in for some trouble when a telephone was put in this office but even more trouble is being encountered than was expected. The whole trouble is due to out-of-town parties who want to talk to persons who are not in the office of the Everglades News. That is the only trouble. If Miami calls Theodore Blubbs, who lives two miles north of town, or John V. Whiskbroom who lives in Pahokee, Miami is just simply out of luck—The Everglades News does not operate a local switchboard or a messenger service. Mr. Blubbs and Mr. Whiskbroom don't get their calls and that's all there is to it—unless they have come in and put in their own calls. This isn't unkind or ungenerous of Louis Goolsby or Howard Sharp; it's just plain common sense that Goolsby and Sharp can't leave their business and run out and hunt up anybody, it doesn't make any difference who it is. The only thing possible to be done is to tell Miami that the call cannot be received and hang up the receiver.

County Plans Vast Wildlife Refuge

Predictions that a vast wildlife refuge area to be developed in Palm Beach County, will be the greatest attraction in South Florida, were made this week when a general plan of the refuge was reviewed for the County Commission.

Presenting the plan was Gerald Baker, representative of the Fish and Wildlife Service, whose agency will have charge of development and operation of the 140,000 acre refuge to be known as the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

The vast marshland area is located west of State Road 7 between the West Palm Beach and Hillsboro Canal.

Tentative plans for a public meeting to hear plans for the refuge were made by the commission this week. The meeting will probably be held sometime the latter part of March in order that the session can be attended by national representatives of the Wildlife Service who will be in Florida at that time.

The area has been in a planning stage for some time, with the county commission and the Central and South Florida Flood Control District, working with the Wildlife Service, in acquiring land and drafting plans for the refuge.

According to the plans which Baker presented this week, main entrance to the area will be along State Road 7 where a 20 acre plot is to be procured to serve as a national operational and administrative headquarters for all Wildlife refuges and projects in South Florida.

Commissioner John Prince, Lake Worth, pinpointed the main entrance as halfway between the Boynton Beach and Delray Beach West Roads.

A second entrance to the area will be located at the south end of the marshland on the Hillsboro Canal.

Baker said he doubted that there was any wildlife area in the nation that could compare to the Loxahatchee Refuge, pointing out the year around growing season and the ability to develop the area into an outstanding refuge for fish, waterfowl and sight seeing.

One of the principal uses of the area, Baker said, will be as a wintering place for migratory waterfowl such as ducks and geese.

Considerable emphasis will be placed on Canadian geese, Baker said in his report. This phase will include bringing geese here from Northern areas, clipping their wings for a season and releasing them to decoy flights of Canadian bankers into the Loxahatchee Refuge.

As for fishing, the marshland is now teeming with bass and bream and little or no restocking will have have to be carried out, Baker said.

One of the greatest uses of the refuge, Baker said, will be by the sight seeing tourists. Development of the refuge for sightseeing parties will be a major part of the project. This development will include dredging several canals through the marshlands so that sight seeing boats can navigate the area.

Hunters will be able to use the refuge, Baker said, and reported that it is planned to open about 25 percent of the area for the hunters.

Some of the problems which face the Wildlife Service in developing the refuge, Baker said, include the thousands of acres of worthless vegetation which must be removed. This will be done in some instances by raising the water tables and in others by spraying.

Maintaining a proper natural balance of wildlife in the area is also a great problem that will have to be worked out. Baker said that to allow one species of wildlife to increase in too great a number would defeat the operation of the refuge.

To allow too many alligators or otters to inhabit the area would mean a decrease in waterfowl in that the gators and otters eat the waterfowl or destroy their nests. The same thing is true with fish. A rigid balance must be maintained between the game fish and predator fish.

Improvements include construction of two concessions areas where boats docks, store, snack bars, bait and tackle shops will be available to sportsman and sight seeing parties.

Lamar Johnson, member of the FCD engineering staff, predicted that this area "will be one of the greatest tourist attractions in South Florida."

Said Johnson, "this is a project that has been a dream for many years and is now in operation."

Reviewing work that has been done to date, Johnson said that the east boundary levy is already half completed and will probably be completed by the end of the year.

A large pumping station, capable of throwing two million gallons of water a minute, is about to be started and a connecting canal links between areas number one and two are now being completed.

Commissioner Prince said that telephone and power service has been pledged by the Florida Power and Light Company and Southern Bell Telephone Company and access roads will be built by the county.

Woman's Club Aids In Drive For Dimes

At a business luncheon of the Pahokee Woman's Club held at the clubhouse Tuesday, Mrs. Leon Spooner, chairman of the March of Dimes drive in the Pahokee-Canal Point area, reported the Woman's Club raised $236.23 of the total of $672.42 collected in the drive in this area. Most of this money was collected through the club's sponsorship of collections from local theatre patrons.

The group voted to ask the house committee to make copies of the club's rules and regulations regarding the rental of the clubhouse.

Mrs. R. J. Schroder gave a report on the County Federation meeting which she attended on Jan. 24 and Mrs. Frank Friend reported on the newly organized Everglades Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

The club went on record as favoring the proposed federal low-rent housing project for Pahokee and Mrs. Frank Friend, Mrs. Malcolm Millar and Mrs. Sam McKinstry, Sr., were named on a committee to go before the City Council at its next meeting and express the club's feeling on this matter.

Payment of a bill for the re-upholstering of 25 clubhouse chairs, as reported by Mrs. J. R. York, was approved.

Mrs. Schroder outlined the procedure for establishing a closed membership for the club and this proposal was tabled until the next meeting.

Mrs. Norman Kennedy, first vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Leo Wroten. Luncheon hostesses were Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Mrs. Margie Hillier and Mrs. Robert Hatton.

Under present plans the ownership of the cemetery will be divided between Pahokee, Belle Glade and South Bay and it will be operated and maintained under the supervision of a joint commission made up of representatives from the three communities. The price of cemetery lots was raised at the meeting from $10 to $25 per lot, and it was voted to have a tele phone installed at the caretaker's cottage.

The bid of the Glades Equipment Company to sell the city a combination tractor and mowing machine for use on city streets and parks was accepted by the council. It was voted to purchase a voting machine for use in city elections from the Automatic Voting Machine Company, under the terms of the company's rental purchase plan. When he returns to Norfolk to report for duty, he will be joined by his brother, Richard Ogle, who recently completed his boot training, as a member of the crew of the John W. Yankees Wanting Many Glades Acres

Considerable interest from Northern visitors in acquiring Everglades property for farming and cattle raising was reported this week to the county commission by the county agents office.

H. L. Speer, assistant agricultural agent in the Glades said his office had been deluged during the month by prospective investors from the North—most of them interested in securing ranch land.

He also reported that there was a great demand for better cattle breeding stock in the county.

Activities in the Glades to show the county farm land to visitors include organized tour of the farm and cattle lands—two of these trips to be held this month.

Already taken on a tour of the Glades, the report said, were a group of 50 Michigan farmers and a group of Brazilian visitors. Most of the inquiries have been coming from visitors from Northern states and Canada, Speer said.

Gladioli Festival Scheduled Feb. 18

DELRAY BEACH—It's gladioli time again in Delray Beach.

The annual South Florida Gladioli Festival and Fair—the sixth edition—opens here Monday, Feb. 18, and runs through Feb. 23. It is a flower show, county fair and amusement park rolled into one.

Movie star Vera-Ellen will officially open the festive week Monday at 3 p. m. when she snips a ribbon of glass strung across the entrance to the festival fairgrounds. A giant parade follows at 7 p. m.

Main attraction is the gladioli. The gorgeous flower is grown by the millions on vast farms west of the city, and constitute a major industry. The festival serves to advertise the growers' product and entertain thousands of tourists and residents. Last Year's festival drew an estimated 30,000 to this town of 6,500 people.

Commercial exhibits range from huge tractor-trailers which ship gladioli to northern markets to musical instruments. Among four tents of special exhibits are the State Game and Fresh Water Commission wildlife exhibits, a miniature replica of Ringling Brothers & Barnum and Bailey's circus, and of course, the glads.

A huge tent has been reserved for the hundreds of varieties grown locally and they will be displayed by the thousand.

Various local clubs and fraternal organizations will be in charge of midway concessions and rides will be provided for children.

Christian Science Group Of Canal Point

An awakening from the thrall of the physical senses accompanies the recognition that God is the Soul of man and to understand Soul gives protection and joy. This is the keynote of Christian Science services next Sunday, when the subject is "SOUL."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (35: 9): "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord; it shall rejoice in his salvation."

Readings from the Bible include this verse from Colossians (3: 2): "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth."

Included among correlative passages from "Science and Health" with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony. Truth will at length compel us all to exchange the pleasures and pains of sense for the joys of Soul" (p. 390).

New Traffic Survey

TALLAHASSEE — State Road Department experts are going to make a second check of the amount of time it takes an auto mobile to go from Jacksonville to Miami on U. S. Route 1.

It was tried last November and they found it took nine and a half hours. Now, they want to see if there is any difference in time during the tourist season when the highway is crowded with out-of-state traffic. The check will be made February 18.

These tests are part of a survey aimed at determining the need for a high-speed toll highway running from Jacksonville to Miami and bypassing smaller cities along the way.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

MRS. EVELYN TEW

Below is printed the platform of Mrs. Evelyn Tew, Palm Beach, candidate for the Republican nomination as congresswoman from the Sixth district:

1. Reduction of Bureaucratic Government spending.
2. Refusal to use American money to "buy" friendship aboard.
3. More decisive military action in Korea. Victory rather than appeasement.
4. Exercise of Legislative rights by the Congress without orders from the White House.
5. A 25 percent limit to Federal tax on Income. This is the way to restore State Rights and prevent dictatorial powers in Washington.
6. Return of honesty and integrity to Government.
